

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

133

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Jason Cole is a native of Knoxville and a graduate student at the University of Tennessee. He will be graduating in 2014 with a Master of Architecture degree with concentrations in both urban design and historic conservation and stewardship. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree in industrial engineering technology from East Tennessee State University.

Valerie Friedmann, Associate ASLA is a lecturer in the University of Tennessee College of Architecture and Design graduate landscape architecture program. Her current research interests include stormwater best management practices for high performance landscape design. She holds Bachelor of Science and Master of Landscape Architecture degrees from the University of Tennessee.

Marion Forbes is a fifth-year student in the Bachelor of Architecture program at the University of Tennessee where she is minoring in musical performance. She participated in the college's Finland Summer Architecture Institute and was a winner of the Hnedak Bobo Global Design Scholarship.

Amanda Gann is a student in the Master of Science in Architecture program at the University of Tennessee with a dual concentration in sustainable design and urban design. She holds a Bachelor of Architecture from the University of Tennessee and is a recipient of the AIAS Chapter President Honor Award.

Ted Shelton, FAIA is an Associate Professor of Architecture at the University of Tennessee and a Partner in the firm curb. He is a Fellow of both the American Institute of Architects and the Institute for Urban Design. He holds a Bachelor of Architecture from the University of Tennessee, a Master of Architecture in urban design from the University of Oklahoma, and a Master of Philosophy in environmental design in architecture from Cambridge University.

Ben Wathen holds a Bachelor of Architecture degree from the University of Tennessee where he graduated Summa Cum Laude as a member of the Chancellor's Honors Program. At UT he participated in the college's exchange with the Politechnika Krakowska in Poland and received a Faculty Award for Academic Excellence.

Daniel Zegel is a fifth-year student in the Bachelor of Architecture program at the University of Tennessee. He is the recipient of a Summer Undergraduate Research Assistantship from the UT Office of Research.

